

Join our Board

Larger Us exists to inspire and support a new kind of change-maker.

One who works towards a shift from a 'them-and-us' to a 'larger us' world. One who:

- Recognises the humanity in 'the other side', and what motivates them to act as they do.
- Is willing to listen and reach out beyond their usual support base.
- Understands and acts on the inner change needed to do this emotionally demanding kind of work.

We do this by connecting change-makers who understand how what happens in our minds impacts the way we experience and exist in the world around us.

Our work includes making the case for our ideas through research and communications; delivering training programmes for change-makers; and convening events where they can learn from and connect with each other.

We're looking for Board members who can help us to build on what we have achieved so far and steer us towards growth.

We're appointing up to five people with a broad mix of skills and experience. We're particularly interested in the following:

- Helping small organisations to diversify their income streams, grow and increase their reach
- Building relationships with potential partnership organisations and funders
- Leading on financial management either as an accountant or financial director
- Developing, delivering and scaling training programmes
- Recruiting, retaining and engaging active members for a group or community of practice

- Organising or campaigning (in a political, issue-based or community context)
- Supporting people as a psychologist, coach, counsellor or through some other personal development practice.

If this sounds like you, we'd very much welcome your application. Don't worry if you've not served on a non-profit board before: if you are inspired by our cause and have something to offer our governance we would love to hear from you.
